COSTS ARE COLLECTED

Charlottesville, Oct. 6.- George W. Dean, State Forester, in a recent report to Raymond Long, Director of the Department of Conservation and Development, states "The Virginia Forest Service has collected suppression costs on 42.2 per cent of the 1855 forest fires which have ravaged the Commonwealth's timberland area this year." Dean said, "This amounts to $13,853 which will be returned to the counties in which the fires occurred." He warns, "the state forest laws instruct the State Forester to carefully investigate all forest fires and attempt to collect the cost of suppressing said fires. Even though the fire was accidental, with no malicious intent, it is necessary that the party responsible pay the fire suppression costs."

Dean reminds that "money paid in fines, court costs and suppression costs does not replace the valuable timber destroyed by a forest fire. Also, the loss to wildlife, watershed, recreational and aesthetic value cannot be replaced overnight. A little forethough when burning brush or trash, lighting a cigarette or pipe or using fire in any manner, may prevent a costly fire."

AHS Newscast

By Jane Holt

October 7, 1954

Dear June,

The big event this week was our varsity won Friday night. The football team and the cheerleaders motored to Altavista Friday night, followed by many supporters to play Altavista High School. We were so pleased at winning the game. The team played a great game. Teddy Mitchell scored two touchdowns off passes tossed by John Paul Rothgeb. Ronnie Lewis scored another touchdown, making the final score 18-0. Our team was really clicking. This Friday night we play Gretna here at our ball park. Since it is a home game, we are looking for many spectators.

Wednesday night our Junior Varsity played Halifax Junior Varsity and won 7-6. These are our future varsity players and we are glad to see them doing so well.

Monday the Junior Class elected their class officers:

Pres., Floyd Fleshman.
V. Pres., Alton Smith.
Sec., June Carol Conner.
Treas., Mary Walker Evans.
Reporter, J. D. Guill.
Historian, Carol Myers.

We have a fine group of Juniors this year, sponsored by Mrs. W. M. Morris and Miss Harriett Holley. We wish them a successful year, led by their able leaders.

Each homeroom elected their SCA representatives last week. We are expecting great things from our Student Council this year, led by Edna Gregory.

Monday and Tuesday were spent taking pictures. All these boys in white shirts and ties and the girls all dressed just so. Maybe we should have pictures made more often—huh? We hope the students will be pleased with their photos.

Home-coming is going to be soon—the 22nd. of this month are already making plans for big event of the school year. many of our alumni will be here you going to come home?

This concludes the local happenings around AHS this week. Be looking for more news from us next week.

'Til then,

Jane.

DELAWARE LEADS STATES IN PER CAPITA INCOME

Delaware led all the states in per capita individual income in 1953 for the second time in the post-World War II period, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce. It also was first in 1951, and has had a consistently high ranking in other years.

Delaware's per capita income last year topped $2,300, and was over a third more than the national average of $1,709 for the year. Connecticut moved up to second place after being fourth in 1952, and Nevada and New York followed in that order. In all, 17 states and the District of Columbia exceeded the national figure for per capita individual income payments in 1953.

AWAY WE GO

(A travel feature prepared by Virginia Automobile Association with the American Automobile Association).

Lexington, Ky.- A visitor to this fabled Blue Grass region finds that horses hereabouts live better than most people. Not that anybody minds, for these are racing thoroughbreds on their home ground . . and it's a friendly, fascinating ground at that.

Many of the fine horse farms in the neighborhood around Lexington welcome visitors. Those who spend a leisurely afternoon or an entire day are in for a rare treat. Nor is it necessary to be a horse fancier from away back to enjoy the experience.

For one thing, the landscape is hard to match. The expression "Blue Grass" is really a misnomer, but the grass is an intense green. The roads are lined with freshly painted fences, beyond which horses are at their luxurious ease.

At outstanding farms like Almahurst, south of Lexington on Route 68, horse barns are built, painted and landscaped as attractively as most private homes. Inside the barns are as clean as a meticulous housewife's kitchen and even the brushes that are used on the horses are given a thorough daily soaking.

Anybody who has read the sports pages, even casually, has some acquaintance with such well known thoroughbred hostelries as Calumet Coldstream, Elmendorf, Greentree, Faraway and Spendthrift. Most of these and many others keep the front gates open, usually between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M., though some are closed Sundays.

Greentree Farm, which Jock Whitney and his thoroughbreds call home, is one of the most popular farms for visitors. Just driving over more than a thousand acres of pastureland is a refreshing and restful diversion from the open road. To say nothing of visiting the barns and meeting some of the great winners of the past . . and no doubt the future.

The grooms are friendly and if you don't know the racing records of their favorites when you arrive they'll be sure you do before you leave. "Windy" Alexander, chief groom at Greentree's stud barn, for example, earned his name in twenty-five years of handling champions and telling about them, too.

Currently his stable is occupied by such great horses as Shut Out, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1942; One-Hitter, Capot, Bimelich , and Tom Fool. Remember those names? They thrilled the fans at tracks all over the country several years ago. Tom Fool is the latest to join the stable; he won everything in sight , was retired when his handicap was raised to 142 pounds. His stud fee: $5,000.

The Faraway Farm is one of the most visited of Kentucky farms, as the site of the famed bronze statue standing over the grave of history's great racing champion, Big Red otherwise known as Man O'War. This farm is the home now of two of Big Red's sons, War Admiral and War Relic.

Horses and Lexington have been good company for 150 years, since the days when the Jocky Club held its meetings at Ashland, the home of Henry Clay. It has two fine tracks: Keeneland, running in April and October, and the trotting track where standardbreds go through their paces in September. A horse show is held in July, when local society shows the latest in fashions.

But the show then, as througout the year, belongs to the horses. As one racing enthusiast puts it, "People will just never replace horses that can run."

"Newspapers are the schoolmaster of the common people. That endless book, the newspaper, is our national glory." -Henry Ward Beecher.

DEATHS OF TWO SCHOOL CHLDREN BRINGS NEW PLEA FOR CAUTION

Richmond, Va.- With the deaths of two school children in one day while leaving school buses, Dr. D. J. Howard, Superintendent of Public Instruction and member of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, asked strict observance by motorists of the law requiring a stop when meeting or overtaking a school bus while loading or discharging pupils.

This law, Dr. Howard reminds, requires that drivers come to a full stop, even on divided highways, and remain stopped until the road is clear of children and the bus is again in motion. Failure to do so, he added, constitutes reckless driving under the Code of Virginia.

Dr. Howard stated further that the last such death occurred in 1952 and that during the 1953-54 school session, 318,000 pupils were transported in official school buses some 32 million miles without a fatality.

Meanwhile Inspector of Field Forces, P. W. Crews of the State Police revealed that all departmental members were advised of this transportation record in September and directed to continue unrelenting enforcement of the school bus law. He also reminded the driving public that the Code provides a maximum punishment of 30 days in jail and a fine of $100 for a first conviction of reckless driving. For subsequent convictions or one causing serious bodily injury the penalties can be far more severe and upon any reckless driving conviction the offender's driving license may be suspended for as much as six months. Two such convictions for violations occurring within a year bring a mandatory license suspension of twelve months.

Good Prospects for Second Half of Dove Season

According to I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, the first half of the split season on doves, especially in the Piedmont section, was as good or better than it was last year and the second half of the season, October 16 - November 4, promises more good sport, since that is the period when the doves north of Virginia begin migrating into the state.
